Olympiad in Informatics 2014

The Olympiad in Informatics (OI) is a programming, algorithmics and logic contest for students in secondary schools. This year will mark the fourth edition of this event. The olympiad is organized in three phases :

- the semi-finals take place in November at the same time with the same questionnaires in regional centers scattered all around the country ;
- the final gathers the best candidates in one place in January ;
- a Belgian delegation is created to represent our country at the International Olympiad in Informatics (IOI), this year in Taipei (Taiwan).

The organizers

The Olympiad is organized by the non-profit association "beOI", which is mainly composed of members of Belgian Universities and Colleges offering Computer Science degrees.

The association's goal is to promote Information and Communication Technology through the organization of this olympiad, as well as to build a team of 4 students that will represent Belgium at the International Olympiad in Informatics.

The national Olympiad

The Belgian Olympiad is open to all students in secondary education. The Belgian contest is divided in two stages : the semi-finals and the final. After the semi-finals, the 60 best candidates will compete in the national final.

In the competition, the contestants are confronted with algorithmic and logic problems. The semi-final is entirely paper-based and organized jointly in multiple centers all around Belgium. The final is divided into a paper-based and a computer-based part, and takes place at a single central location.

The first edition was organized in the French-speaking Community in 2010. The following year, and ever since, the organization was expanded to cover the entire country. We collaborate nationwide to promote ICT among Belgian students and their relatives.

We specifically target students with a certain interest in mathematics and logic, but also in programming. The last edition attracted 174 students. Owing to our growing reputation, we could count on a 30% yearly increase in participation in the last few years, and we aim for a similar growth this year.

The International Olympiad

Once the national competition is over, a Belgian delegation is created in order to represent the country at International Olympiad in Informatics, that will take place in Taiwan this year.

The delegation is typically composed of four students in secondary education, selected among the best performers in the national contest, accompanied by two members of the association (one Dutch- and one French-speaking).

During the 2011 edition, our delegation won a bronze medal, in 2012 it returned with 2 medals (one bronze and one silver), and last year it added another two bronze medals to the honor roll.

These successes make us one of the best performing science olympiads in Belgium. Our delegation's results are reported in online and offline media and press in both the north and the south of Belgium.

Advantages for your company

The Olympiad offers an excellent opportunity to present your company to students with an interest in ICT and to their parents, relatives and teachers all around Belgium.

The different stages of the contest ensure a maximal visibility to a selected audience. Advertising through our multiple diffusion channels, from written press over social networks to our website, allows you to get in touch with a large number of people with a specific interest in ICT.

Sponsoring program

Our sponsor program cover the entire event, i.e., the advertising and registration phase, the two phases of the national contest, and the international contest.

In order to offer a maximum visibility, we accept at most two Premium sponsors for each stage of the contest.

We propose different predefined sponsorship deals, but feel free to contact us : we are happy to discuss any other arrangements or specific requests, that are better tailored to your company.
